

Fountain Artworks

The purpose of this brand is to shed a spotlight on education. Because my style is abstract, most of what is viewed is left to the interpretation of the viewer. “Beauty is in the eye of the beholder.” Something I believe is missing in education is creativity. The best way to learn is to have fun. Kids learn more about themselves on the playground more so than in the classroom. Children are shy and don't always let their creativity show. I'm here to change that. With my brand, I intend to show the world that there are as many different ways of thinking as there are people. So trust your ideas, make mistakes, ask questions. It's okay to be different. I want you to feel empowered, and to release your inner creative when you “Take your art with you.”
